Professional Experience

Business manager and CFO, chairman/director at some corporations - business activities under my management are diverse and include: real estate, renewable energy, landfill and waste recycling, nursing home, retail, vegetable agriculture, animal agriculture.

Summary of my Activities and Future Plans

As reflected in my activity above, throughout the last 26 years my activity in the academic world is intertwined with my activity in the business and financial world. The combination between the two worlds allows me to pour into the academic world my rich experience in business activity. This combination is necessary in order to connect the customers of the academic college (students) to the real business world.

My involvement in the academy stems from the desire to prepare students in the best possible way for the world of accounting, which has experienced changes in recent years, through the creation of curricula and the development of teaching methods that will allow students to successfully pass the Board of Accountants exams as well as integrate into the profession and the business world after completing their degree studies.
